

Formed in mid 2007 by Tyler Lamoreaux, Mike Bielenda, Ben Lamoreaux and Nate Wittock, THE YELLOW SIGN immediately caught the attention of metal enthusiasts in their homestate of Michigan and over the next 2 years had already opened for some of the biggest acts in Metal including The Black Dahlia Murder, Whitechapel, Impending Doom, Misery Signals, Suicide Silence, Parkway Drive, Winds Of Plague and more. Once guitarist Ricky Debuscherre (fmr. Beyond The Wall of Sleep) completed their now solid lineup, they completed 3 DIY tours including a full US tour w/ The Contortionist in '09. Their latest cd "Ancient" was released on April 3rd 2009 to great success, garnering them positive reviews in Hails & Horns Magazine, Metal Hammer Magazine, and more than a few online metal webzines. TYS consistently ranks in the top 10 unsigned metal acts in the US on Myspace.com's Artist Charts

The Yellow Sign delivers a perfect blend of what fans in their realm of death metal want and love - they maintain ridiculous heaviness while keeping things intelligent, progressive and precise. While other bands are out there pretending to be things they really aren't, TYS is busy developing their signature hybrid style of pummeling, groovy, technical metal. Smooth transitions carry the listener through vast atmospheric soundscapes while the hard-hitting snare blasts, chunked-out guitar sluggage, concrete-cracking low end and furiously pissed off vocals would make you think these guys are seasoned veterans of the underground metal scene - however, The Yellow Sign are just getting started.
